HUBATKA INDICTED ON CHARGES OF EMBEZZLEMENT AND FORGERY

CHIEF FACES TWO COUNTS—EM-BEZZLEMENT AND FORGERY
ARE LAID AT OFFICIAL'S DOOR
IN INDICTMENTS.

DEPUTY IS ACCUSED

One of Yesterday's Bills Effects Sheriff's Aid on Bribe-Taking Alleegation.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 20.— John Hubatka, police chief, was indicted by the grand jury Monday and the indictment was returned in the district court Tuesday. The jury recommended his suspension, pending his trial on charges of having accepted money illegally.

Sammy Sampson, former desk sergeant, and recently the chief's clerk, was jointly indicted with Hubatka in one case. There are several indictments against the chief.

Seven of the indictments returned were reindictments against former deputy Jake Armstrong.

It is understood that there were 13 indictments. A deputy sheriff and a wholesale liquor dealer are understood to be included on the list.

Judge Clark has ordered all witnesses in the graft cases, except three, placed under heavy bonds to assure their presence at the trials.

Judge George W. Clark, of the district court, issued a suspension order charging corruption in office and ordered it served at once. Mayor Scales will appoint a man to fill the suspended chief's place.

Chief Furnishes Bonds.

The police chief and his secretary were soon found by the sheriff, and both furnished bond in the sum of $2,000 each. There were two indictments against each man, and the bond is $1,000 in each case. The bonds were supplied by George Hale and Dan Phillips.

The two indictments found against Samson and Hubatka yesterday are said to be only "samples" of what is in the hands of the grand jury, and the witnesses called in these cases indicate the extent of the field from which the grand jury is drawing.
These are the witnesses to the charges against Hubatka and his secretary returned yesterday. James H.
Boles, city jailor; "Doc" Flower,
Zena Flower, Sam Reese, Tom Boyd-
son, city auditor; E. C. Perkins, Roe Burnett and Edith Long.

The woman, Edith Long, is the crucial witness in this case, as she has testified to having paid $51 which is the amount in question in Hubatka's case. She testified to paying it in two installments, one of $30 and one of $21.

Of the eight indictments against Armstrong, only one is new, it is the same as the one returned against Witcher.

After Hubatka and Samson had furnished bond Attorney W. K. Snyder appeared for Hubatka and Judge Clark set the time for the hearing of the charges against the chief of police and Hubatka's protest against the chief of police and Hub-atka's protest against the grand jury's indictment at 1:30 p. m. Friday. At that time Judge Clark will consider the police chief's suspension.

The state law makes it optional with the court whether the police chief shall be immediately suspended or whether such action shall be taken after a hearing which must be set for some time within five days of the date of the grand jury's action. In speaking of the matter yesterday afternoon Judge Clark said:
"I do not consider that any end would be served in instantly suspending the chief of police. The state provides that the court may take cognizance of the circumstances surrounding such an indictment, and that the court may use its discretion. It is especially enjoined in the law that the court is not to arbitrarily use this power unless it is to safeguard the people from loss or damage."

"It is unofficially known to me, of course, what action has been taken by the mayor and the city council in Mr. Hubatka's case, and it does not appear to me at this time that there is any danger to be apprehended from such tenure as he now has of his office. And such representation has not been made to me.

"I am of opinion that Mr. Hubatka's suspension should not be ordered until a notice of this grand jury's action has been served upon him and the time of a hearing specified as required by the law covering indictments by grand jury instead of by county commissioners. Even after such a time is specified and the grand jury's report is filed in this office I do not see that Mr. Hubatka's instant suspension need be arbitrarily made. Such a hearing must be within five days, and that, I think, is soon enough to take such drastic action, especially as the chief of police is not now in the exercise of the functions of his office. In any case you may say no such suspension will be made today."

AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

PETITION BEING CIRCULATED IS MEETING WITH APPROVAL OF

eral Election.

A petition to the governor, asking that an amendment to the Constitution be ordered for the next gen-pointing and maintaining a resident agent. It also gives the right of lease gentle rain fell throughout the coun-

TEN INCHES OF RAINFALL

PRECIPITATION AT SAN MARCOS
TEX., HEAVIEST IN YEARS.

Lower Part of City Flooded—1,500

Bales of Cotton Floated Into Purgatory Creek.

San Marcos, Tex., Oct. 19.—A waterspout struck this town, last night about 8 o'clock. The government gauge has registered ten inches in the last twenty-four hours. Purgatory Creek rose rapidly and soon all the lower part of the city was flooded.
About 1,500 bales of cotton on the ground of the compress were floated and many of them were carried into the currents.

It is thought every bale can be recovered. The loss to the compress will be about $2,500, caused by the expenses in rehandling the cotton to the yards. No cotton on the platforms was lost and no damage was done to the plant.

The streets of the city were damaged to the extent of about $2,000, and it will be several months before the repairs can be completed. The new stone wall in front of Coronal Institute washed down.

Mexicans in the lower part of the city are routed from their homes, and for a time a repetition of the flood of ten years ago was expected.

Ed Barbury and wife of Houston,
who had been camping on Thompson's Island, about a mile below the city, were marooned by the sudden rise of the waters.

Hastily cutting loose his horses
they climbed a branching pecan tree and remained there until their cries were heard by some one living near who secured boats and rescued them.

JAPAN GIFT--

2000 CHERRY TREES

WILL BE PLANTED ALONG THE FAMOUS POTOMAC DRIVE.

The Emperor's Gift Will Be Presented to the Government Through Mrs. Taft.

Washington, Oct. 18.—When the honorary commercial commissioners of Japan arrive in Washington on November 1 they will be taken on an automobile drive, along which 2,000 cherry trees, to be presented to this country by the Emperor of Japan, will be planted. The shipment of the trees and the planting thereof has been entrusted to Torajiro Watase proprietor of a Tokio plant and seed company, who is one of the commissioners.

Speaking of the gift of the emperor to the city of Washington, Mr. Watase said the trees would be sent to Mrs. Taft, wife of the president, and by her presented to the government for transplanting along the Potomac river front, and it was Mrs. Taft who gave the name Potomac park to that section of the city. She made popular the afternoon promenades on the drive, which were a feature last summer of summer life in the capital.

The Emperor of Japan is sending to New York also a large number of cherry trees to be planted along Riverside drive and Grant's tomb. In Japan, the land of the cherry blossoms, there are many beautiful legends about the tree and flower of the cherry. The blossoms of the Japanese cherry is of peculiar delicate beauty, and these is a tradition in Japan that if that same tone appears in the blossom of the Japanese cherry planted in another country, that country can be taken and subjugated by Japan. Mr. Watase is authority for the statement that while many Japanese cherry trees have been brought to the United States, the color of the blossoms, although just as beautiful, is unlike the blossoms which appears in Japan.

"Therefore," he said, "we conclude that we could not take America, even if we were so disposed."

POVERTY AMONG CHICKASAWS

UNABLE TO ATTEND SCHOOL BECAUSE OF THE LACK OF CLOTHING.

Every Guardian of Children Should Be Held to the Strictest Accountability.

Ardmore, Okla., Oct. 18.—Notwithstanding the fact that the Indian children of this country have much property and many have guardians and custodians and curators to look after their interests, there are many hundred Indian children unable to attend the Indian schools because of poverty. In a recent trip over the country Supervisor F. H. Umholtz of the Chickasaw nation found many hundred Indian children in Pontotoc, Marshall, Johnston and Murray counties unable to attend the schools because of the lack of clothing and other wearing apparel. Such conditions as these should not prevail with the property owners not being able to go to school because of poverty. It is self-evident that something is rotten in Denmark or Oklahoma and that the guardians are getting fat off the lands of the Indian minors. It has been truthfully said by many that the average Indian guardian looks out for himself first, his family next, and if there is anything left for his ward.

Prof. Umholtz expressed it as his opinion that it would be a good policy for the government to appoint at least one inspector over 200 Indians to look after their affairs. The county judge has not the time to do much else than look after the affairs of Indians. The district agents have more territory than they can well handle, and have not the time to spare to investigate conditions as they should be.

"In Pontotoc county the district agent has about 3,000 Indians to supervise, and that is too much for one man," said Mr. Umholtz. "I found the schools all full, but the condition of many children who should be in school are pitiable."

"I think it would be the part of great wisdom to have every guardian of children held to the strictest accountability and made to keep a very strict account of what he has done to see that his ward gets all of his lease money due him or her."

Answer the Question.
What kind of a church would my church be if every member of it would do just as I do? To answer that question correctly one would have to be a regular attendant and notice whether or not the one propounding the question was present every Sunday or not. If the former be true, the answer is quite evident, if the latter, there is room for many words.

The irregular attendance on church services not only makes it very difficult for the preacher to do his best work, but it places a stumbling block in some other man's way. But you say, "Am I my brother's keeper?" Yes, says the Master. That is only one side of it. While being a stumbling block is an awful offense in the sight of God, but what about your own soul? Men and brethren, let us be up and doing while it is yet day!

BOY DRINKS PINT OF WHISKEY.

Death Soon Follows—Gift to Boy's Father.

Ingalls, Okla., Oct. 18.—Drinking a pint and a half of whiskey while his father and the hired man were doing the chores, Avery Salisbury, the 12-year-old son of Charles S. Salisbury, living two miles northeast of Ingalls, died six hours later without recovering consciousness.

William Salisbury, an uncle of the boy, received a shipment of whiskey at Ripley and gave his brother Chas., a quart. Charles Salisbury and the hired man each took a small drink and then offered it to the boy. He took a taste, shook his head and said he did not like it. While the men were at work he returned to the house and drained the bottle.

When the empty bottle was found, a doctor was called, but he arrived too late to save the boy's life. The boy's mother and the other children were in Arkansas, settling an estate of Mrs. Salisbury's father.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS

GUESTS AT TEXAS STATE FAIR

Gray Garbed Veterans Visit Grounds and Grow Young Again.
Dallas, Oct. 19.—Confederate Veterans were guests of honor at the Texas State Fair yesterday. It was their day. The exercises centered around them and their sons and daughters assisted in the observance. The very sky was gray and the rifles and uniforms of the men who fought for four years in the "sixties" were badges of honor in all parts of the grounds. Veterans of Dallas and of the State held exercises in the forenoon in Convention Hall. The place was crowded.

At noon there was a sham battle, watched by thousands, in front of the race track grand stand. The Confederates were opposed by the State National Guardsmen. The veterans swept their younger adversaries from the field, capturing their camp and the artillery that defended it.

DR. COOK TO REASSEND

MOUNT MCKINLEY

Heads Expedition to Recover Records Deposited There and Clear His Veracity.
Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the explorer, will again brave hardships and death by leading an expedition in person to recover the records he says he left at the summit of Mount McKinley, Alaska, the highest mountain in America.

In an interview before leaving Toledo today the explorer declared his intention of again leaving the comforts of civilization for the perils of the wilderness to clear his veracity of the slur that has been cast upon it.

Dr. Cook did not say when his expedition will start. He said, however, it would require two months here in the United States to equip the expedition and another three months to reach Alaska, penetrate to the mountain, make the ascent and return to the coast.

Canterbury, Sixteenth St., Ada, Okla., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly, as they cured me of a distressing case of kidney complaint. My back was so weak at times that I was unable to work, in fact, I found it very difficult to walk. Dull, nagging pains through my loins also caused me great misery, and I had sharp twinges when I attempted to stoop or lift. The kidney secretions were much too frequent in passage and caused me additional annoyance. Doan's Kidney Pills procured at G. M. THE CHOCTAW'S WANT TO KNOW

HAS McHARG LANDED A BIG FAT INDIAN JOB?

Former Official Said to Have Contract as Eastern Representative of Choctaws.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—Has Ormsby McHarg, assistant secretary of the department of commerce and labor, who recently resigned to form a new partnership in New York City, withdrawn a contract from the office of the secretary of interior to act as the eastern legal representative of the Choctaw nation at a good fat salary, said to be $12,000 a year?

That is the question that is agitating the mind of more than one official in Washington and a number of lesser officials and members of the Choctaw tribe in Oklahoma. In these dispatches some time ago mention was made of Mr. McHarg, contemplating acting as the eastern representative of the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations. Mr. McHarg would not deny or confirm the rumor but in the light of subsequent proceedings, strength is added to the story by the fact that one of the attorneys, representing the appellants in the Fleming case, claims that Mr. McHarg had requested of him that the case, which is set for argument this week in the United States supreme court, be postponed.

It is argued that McHarg, after leaving the department of commerce and labor, had intended appearing as one of the attorneys for the Choctaw nation and, that once having appeared, it would be smooth sailing to have the secretary of interior approve a contract whereby McHarg would become the eastern representative of the tribe.

The Choctaw council is at present in session at Tuskahoma and from news received here, it is said that Mr. McHarg is expected to be present.

It is said that the deal, if there be one, to create a fat berth for McHarg, is being engineered by J. F. McMurray, former attorney for the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations, and whose firm, Mansfield, McMurray and Cornish, some time since drew down a $750,000 fee for representing the two tribes, and Cecil Lyon, national republican committeeman of Texas.

McMurray, so the story goes, has considerable influence with Governor D. H. Johnston of the Chickasaw nation and it is said that other influences are being brought to bear on Governor Green McCurtain of the Choctaws, to appoint McHarg as attorney for the two nations.

Dr. E. N. Wright, delegate of the Choctaw nation to Washington, who receives $5,000 a year for his services is said to be one of McHarg's strongest supporters.

The scheme has never taken any very definite shape as far as can be ascertained, but it is said the matter has been under consideration for some time and the fact that McHarg immediately after defending Secretary Ballinger, whose approval would be necessary before an attorney for the Choctaw and Chickasaw nations could be legally appointed, resigned his present position and announced his intention of removing to New York to take up the practice of law.

The officials of the interior department are strangely silent on the subject and will vouchsafe no information that would throw any light on the affair.

The Antis Meet at McAlester.

The Oklahoma Anti-Horse Thief Association, State and National, will meet in convention at McAlester on Wednesday, Oct. 27th, for a two days' session. This Association has done a great work in the fourteen years it has been doing business in Oklahoma. Since organizing in Oklahoma the Association has captured over 400 thieves, sent 272 of them to prison, recovered property aggregating full one hundred thousand dollars in value. The State Lodge will pay $1,000 in rewards this year, including $100 that they offered for the capture of Alf Hunter who killed Sheriff Garrison, on account of the wounding of Pat Saunders, of Arcadia, a member of this Association. Three hundred lodges are expected to have delegates in attendance at this convention.

Those property owners whose fire insurance will shortly expire are invited to call on Otis Weaver for the best rates and certain information concerning the new insurance law of which Senator Roddie is the author.

While here Saturday night, Powers met Robert Garrett, who was implicated in a feud resulting in the death of Powers' brother last spring. Powers fired four revolver shots at Garrett, three of them striking him and the fourth hitting J. A. Cornelius, a justice of the peace. Both men died almost instantly.

HEALTH HINTS.

By G. T. Howerton,
East Central Normal School.

The value of air in our life operations may be understood from the discomfort arising if we attempt to do without it for ONE MINUTE. So important is oxygen of the common air to our life functions that Nature has not even left it to our wills whether we take it or not, but without "taking thought," without willing, even against our wills we breathe. But we do have the power to select what we breathe. To aid in this selection it is arranged that most unclean air is unpleasant, ill-smelling or nauseous. A few deep breaths of pure, sweet air will send a thrill of exhilaration and delight through the system at such a pace that it seems we would be lead instantly to KNOW its need, and demand its presence. But we are not. Many are really too lazy to breathe sufficient. Take the case of the negro. He would rather be cosy and snug than have all the delights of pure air. He shuts himself in his cabin as close as he can, bars down all doors and windows, covers up his head and SLEEPS. Result: Annual increase of tuberculosis among his race at such a rate that it seems this will be the solution of the race question, so far as the negro is concerned.

Experiments made in last few years demonstrate beyond any kind of doubt that the safest "cure" for tuberculosis is clean air, pure air and plenty of it every minute day and night. Climate does not seem to count so much as a factor. Hundreds of persons are now sleeping out of doors north of Washington City along the Atlantic coast line, and seem to be getting about same results they do on the plains of the West. All the requirement seems to be clean air every minute of day and night. But a small dose of prevention is worth many pounds of cure. If these ravages of the White Plague surrender to the oxygen treatment of clean air, what are we to learn as to the power of God's out door air as a preventive? Tuberculosis is probably our worst enemy, yet it is very doubtful if a single case could be developed in a person who treats himself every minute of day and night to a plentiful supply of God's clean air.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

Impson Case to Be Taken Up Tomorrow—Judge Rainey Disqualified.

The M. Impson murder case, which was set for today, will be taken up tomorrow. Judge Rainey has been disqualified and the case had to be put off until the arrival of Judge West from Coalgate, before whom the case will be tried. The judge will come in this afternoon and upon the opening of court tomorrow the Impson case will be taken up and a jury will doubtless be secured by noon, when the hearing of evidence will begin.

Some routine business has been disposed of today—the making of orders in minor matters, of interest only to the parties involved—and at 3 o'clock court adjourned for the day, when Judge Rainey left for Coalgate where he will hold court for Judge West during his absence here.

UNCLE BILL CROSS IS IMPROVING

Head of Oklahoma Veterans Sends Greetings to John H. Morgan Camp.

The Jno. H. Morgan camp met in regular session yesterday afternoon. There was quite a number, particularly of young ladies who graced the meeting with their presence. Among those who contributed to the enjoyment of the afternoon, by voice instrumental music and select readings, were Misses Ikard, Tinnie Thompson, Ruby Randol, Genevieve Nivouche and Romena Bynum.

Short talks were made by the veterans, and some thrilling incidents of their war experience were related. Mr. Fred Kinkade was present and made known his generous offer towards building the Confederate Home; by so doing he ingratiated himself with the old soldiers, and the camp expressed their appreciation of his generosity by a rising vote of thanks. While in session word was received from General Bill Cross by a special messenger that he was much improved in health and able to sit up, and sent kindest remembrances to the camp.

At the dispersion of the meeting every one gave expression to their pleasure and enjoyment of the afternoon.—Ardmoreite.

The Artistic Temperament

"Never again," said the artist, "never again shall I play the role of 'good, kind lady.'"

"I didn't know that was your specialty," said the stenographer softly.

The artist did not hear the remark. She was too busy examining the contents of her purse.

"Last fall," went on the artist, "when I went to Paris and all the Americans in the Latin quarter were so nice to me, I thought it was due to the hospitality of my country people—and my own popularity. Now I know that, even at that early stage, every one of those women had deep designs on me."

"A friend had advised me not to let any one know when I got ready to leave for home. She said just to steal away in the night and send a wireless good-bye back from midocean and thus avoid doing errands for friends. I thought that showed an awful disposition."

"In June I began bragging that I was going back to Chicago in July. Then came a string of callers to find out whether I had any spare room in my trunk. It struck me as rather original to answer in the affirmative—I had never heard of any one who had confessed to being in that state."

"But did you really have vacant space in your trunk when you had been abroad nine months?" asked the stenographer.

"Yes, that is why I had it. You see, I threw away my old clothes on the strength of a woman's asking how much I'd charge to paint her portrait."

"It seemed such a simple thing to say that I'd take a package to New York for Miss Brownell's brother," explained the artist. "She said it was something he had left in Paris. How was I to know that it was a bathrobe, and that her brother was a fat man? After that I didn't have plenty of room in my little steamer trunk. She said I could leave the bathrobe at her brother's office in New York. I said I'd love to. I always did just do duty on carrying packages—especially bathrobes for fat men."

"Then Miss Burridge wanted me to take a hatpin to a little friend of hers. It cost only five cents, but it would make the child so happy to have something from Paris, she said."

"Miss Lawyer had two lovely lace collars she had worn only a few times and she wanted to sell them in order to buy paints. In the Latin quarter it is perfectly polite and stylish to sell one's clothes for art's sake. When Miss Lawyer said I could send her the money back from America I bought one of the collars."

"When I reached New York my rich aunt looked horrified at the thought of my buying lace when I needed shoes and offered to buy the collar for her daughter. As she has always been so nice to me—giving me a lot of advice on how to save money—I let her have the collar for just what I was to pay for it. Then I sent her check on to Paris. Miss Lawyer wrote at once that there was still $4 due, as the collar I had chosen was the more expensive one. I don't see why—it was the smaller of the two. Aunt Mary has an awful opinion of the effects of art, so I wasn't going to have her know I'd sold a collar for $4 less than it was worth. Consequently I sent money of my own to Miss Lawyer and said nothing."

"My matrimonial prospects were ruined as I was taking the steamer, because I had to open my trunk to stow away three little bottles of perfume which Miss Leigh was sending to Chicago. That immaculate George Wolcott was there and saw the way I had packed my trunk."

"Another romance of your young life ended," said the stenographer, comfortably.

"At New York I wanted to show the customhouse officers those three bottles of perfume just to let them know I really had something dutiable, but the bottles had disappeared. My cabin mate insists that I was careless in leaving my trunk unlocked one morning when I went up on deck. I sent $3 to Miss Leigh and worded my letter so that she would think I had used the perfume for presents. She didn't write me a very courteous reply."

"Before I got through with that five-cent hatpin I had to pay out 23 cents in postage and car fare—and the little girl could have bought one just like it in New York for less than ten cents."

"I didn't mind being out of pocket $7.23. I don't even grieve over the loss of Mr. Wolcott, but I know all those women in Paris will get together and compare notes and think me a subject for an insane asylum. So I shall never dare go to Paris again."

"Oh, I shouldn't worry," said the stenographer. "They will think it is your artistic temperament—it isn't as though you were a business woman and were supposed to be intelligent."

"How sweet of you!" said the artist. "Nobody else since Job's time has had such a comforter as you are."—Chicago Daily News.

HIS LOVE NOT REAL ARTICLE

Protestations Proved False When Woman's Wit Put Glib Admirer to the Test.

A reporter ventured, on John D. Rockefeller's seventieth birthday, to question him about his very remarkable present, a jar of petroleum butter, the latest by-product of Standard Oil that the remarkable Standard Oil chemists have evolved.

Mr. Rockefeller, however, would not discuss the petroleum butter. He shook his head, laughed, and said:

"Young man, I am as ignorant about this butter. I am as ignorant as the man in the fable."

"There is a fable, you know, about a man in an eastern city who followed a lady about the bazars and shops a long time. Finally she turned and said:

"Why do you follow me?"

"Because," he answered, "you are very beautiful, and my soul goes out to you in love."

"The lady smiled and said:

"But I am not half so beautiful as my sister there." She pointed to the fountain in the square. "Look at her, filling her water jar. She is a vision of loveliness. Go, then, and make love to her."

"The man took the lady at her word. He hastened to the fountain. But the maiden filling the jar there was very, very ugly, and he returned and said, angrily:

"Your sister beautiful! Why did you tell me such a falsehood?"

"Ah, but why," said the lady, "did you tell me a falsehood first?"

"But I didn't," said he. "When," he added, "did I?"

"When you told me you loved me," said the lady. "For if it had been true that you loved me, you would never have gone off to make love to another woman."

Million-Dollar Housekeeping.

In one hotel of 700 rooms only, the wage bill amounts to $17,000 a week. A big house—that is, one which contains from 1,000 to 1,500 rooms—and the Ansonia apartment hotel in New York has 2,500—will pay out $2,000 a day for food; to feed its thousand or fifteen hundred employees will mean from $500 to $700 to begin with, declares a writer in Everybody's Magazine. Fourteen barrels of flour, 700 dozen eggs, 25 barrels of oysters—the list may also go to indicate the waste there is. A big hotel will burn from 50 to 100 tons of coal a day, winter and summer; for almost as much is required to keep the house cool as to keep it warm. Items that might easily be left out of count—$70,000 a year for music and orchestras, for example—add their astonishing figures. Forty thousand dollars goes to new dishes and $60,000 to new linen. The whole bill for renewals, repairs and redecorations will annually amount to something between $500,000 and $600,000.

The Architecture of Madeira.

We saw no suggestion of modern architecture or European innovation—no blot anywhere, except a single motor car—the only one, I believe, in Funchal. Without knowing anything on the subject, I should say that the architecture of Madeira is a mixture of Spanish and Moorish like that of Mexico. Only it is better than anything in Mexico. From the ship the stucco, tile-roofed city is flawless; and as we steam away and night comes down and lights break out and become a jeweled necklace along the water's edge, our one regret is that we are leaving it all behind.—From "The Ship-Dwellers," by Albert Bigelow Paine, in Outing Magazine.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
